
DR. CHRISTOPHER KOH – Executive Consultant, LeadershipSigma[®]

Asia Pacific Practice

Christopher Koh is a lead consultant in strategy and management in the region, serving government organizations, financial institutions and global corporations. He is managing partner of Asia Management Consulting PL, a consulting firm specializing in business strategy, project management and strategic leadership.

Christopher served for several years as senior faculty at the Citibank Asia Pacific Banking Institute, developing and delivering customer programs to financial institutions in the region. He also served as associate faculty for University of Michigan Ross School of Business executive education programs in Asia. He is currently associate trainer for strategy, project management and strategic leadership at the Singapore Civil Service College and a Learning Consultant for Deloitte Touche Tohmatsu and NUS Extension.

Christopher facilitates strategy planning workshops for both public and private sector organizations – from competitive analysis to strategy formulation and implementation. In addition, he developed a series of programs in strategic leadership (cross-cultural competency, change management and coaching) to support executives responsible for the strategic management of their organizations.

Christopher is a certified Kepner-Tregoe instructor for Project Management, and consults in the development and establishment of organization-specific project management infrastructure (Project Management Office) for private and public sector organizations which include several financial institutions, a national library board and the world's leading mobile communication company.

He has served a number of organizations as consultant or workshop leader. These include, among others Citibank N. A., ABN-AMRO, JP Morgan Chase, OCBC Bank, Bank of China, Bank Mandiri, NOKIA, Singtel, Deloitte Touche Tohmatsu, Cathay Pacific, ExxonMobil, Sanofi-Aventis, Seagram Asia Pacific, Gemplus, AON Reinsurance Brokers, Sumitomo, IFL Swedish Institute of Management, Quintiles, Libyan Economic Development Board, Civil Service College (Singapore), National Library Board (Singapore), Raffles Holdings, and the Ministry of Defense (Singapore). He has lived and worked in the USA and Belgium for several years, with work experience in many locations in Asia Pacific and the Middle-east.

Christopher obtained all of his graduate degrees, the Master of Science in Mechanical Engineering and in Electrical Engineering, and Ph.D. in Mechanical Engineering from the University of Michigan, Ann Arbor.

His interests include reading, traveling, mountain trekking and the great outdoors.